U. S. Urges Census Of Troops Under Arms In East-West

U.S. Moves To End East-West Troops Dispute

Revives Proposals For Census Of All Troops Under Arms

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., March 3.—The United States moved today to end the east-west dispute over which side has the most men under arms by reviving proposals for an international census of troops and non-atomic armaments.

U.S. Delegate Frank Nash called on Russia in the United Nations to agree to a system of inspection and verification of armed forces and pledged America's full cooperation in such a project.

Nash, who is chairman of the U.N. special committee on control of atomic and conventional armaments, declared:

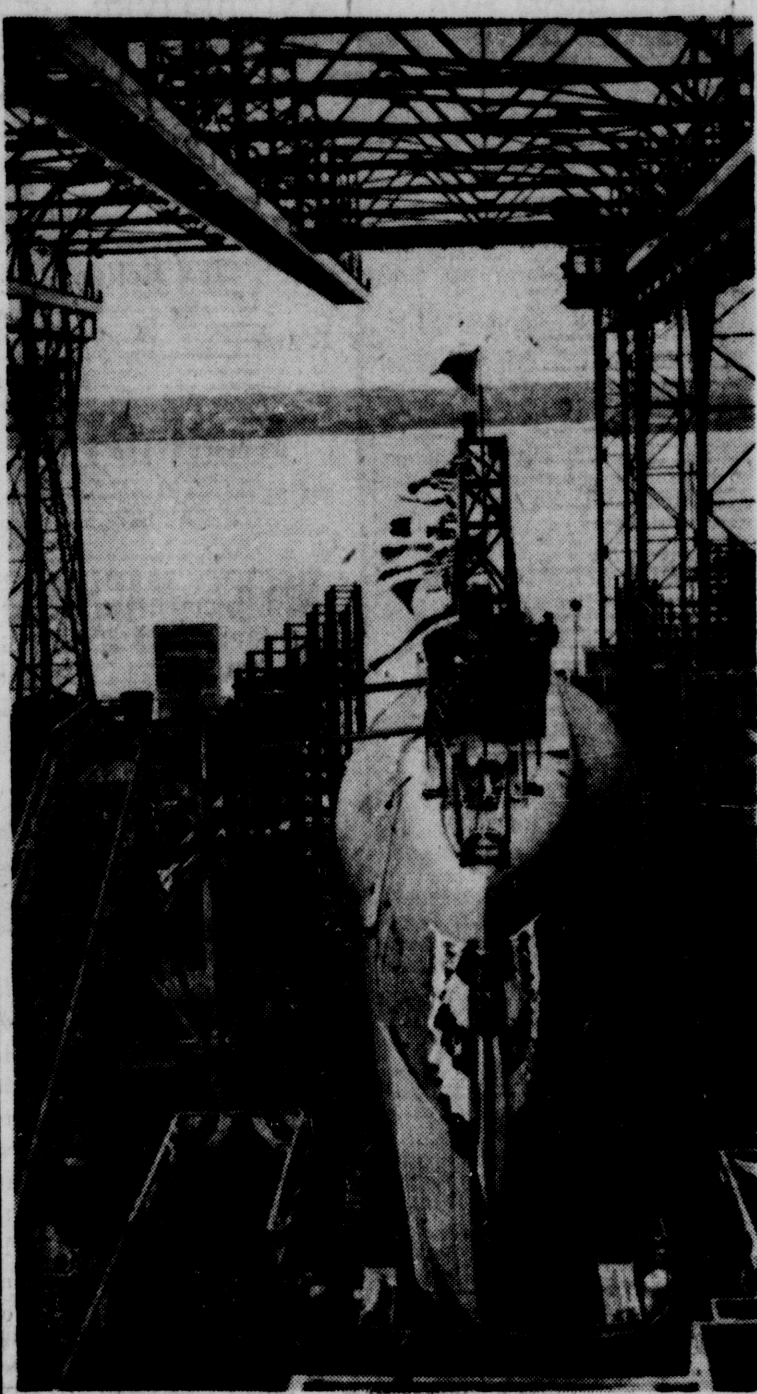

Can End Charges

"The Soviet government has charged the western powers with maintaining twice as many men under arms as the Soviet Union. This routine of charge and counter-charge can be ended immediately if the Soviet government is willing to have facts replace propaganda."

Nash recalled that the majority

Wage Increases Due For Million

Automatic Raises Based On Living Costs Agreement

By WILLIAM KERWIN
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 3.—More than one million workers are due today to receive wage increases of four to five cents an hour as a result of the all-time high set by the cost-of-living index on Jan. 15. The bureau of labor statistics reported that as of Jan. 15, its consumer price index stood at 181.6, or 1.5 per cent above the figure for the previous period.

Automatic Hikes
The pay hikes are automatic for 800,000 CIO United Auto Workers and some 200,000 employees of other industries under terms of cost-of-living "escalator" clauses in their contracts.

In some cases, the increases are expected to breach the ten per cent wage increase ceiling which economic stabilizer Eric Johnston announced Thursday since escalation

The third man was said to be Emerik Vada, once a close friend and counselor of Hungarian Deputy Prime Minister and Communist Leader Mattyas Rakosi.

'Never Heard Such Lying' Declares Probe Chairman

By CHARLES E. SEIB
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Senate committee findings in the charges of influence on big federal loans caused the chief investigator to suggest today that congress check on government morals. Statements by committee witnesses, many of whom have White House connections, prompted committee chairman Fulbright (D) Ark., to comment that "I have never heard such lying in my life."

He confirmed that the FBI has been getting transcripts of the group's daily proceedings for use in probable prosecution of suspicious witnesses.

Fulbright's caustic observation was coupled with the suggestion that a general investigation of the "moral level of government" might be a good thing for the country.

May Be Extended

He said that he felt his subcommittee had about completed its probe of "influence and favoritism" in the granting of government loans by the Reconstruction Finance Corp., but that the job might well be taken up on a broader basis by another body.

He added that the senate investigations committee, headed by

Truman Starts His Vacation At Key West

By ROBERT G. NIXON
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

U. S. SUB BASE, KEY WEST, Fla., March 3.—President Truman began his Florida vacation today under the strictest security blackout since the second world war.

The President occupies a two-story rambling frame bungalow on the closely-guarded naval base. The naval base is now closed to the public. Here are trained the thousands of technicians and experts who must man the Navy's ships, submarines, weapons and secret electronic detection devices for submarine and anti-submarine warfare.

The base has expanded greatly since the outbreak of the Korean conflict and there is a consciousness at the base that Communist Russia is the world's most powerful submarine power, equipped with hundreds of submarines having breathing devices which permit them to range thousands of miles without surfacing.

The President's vacation quarters are situated deep within the base that sprawls over one side of this southernmost U. S. island.

Television Set Given Hospital

Presentation Made Friday Afternoon

(Picture on Page 9)

Presentation of a television set to the children's ward of the Jameson Memorial hospital, was made by Commander Robert L. Pearsall and Senior Vice-Commander Karl Chandler, of the Legion of Honor of the Valley of New Castle Consistory, Friday afternoon. It was accepted in behalf of the hospital by Director Joseph Friedheim.

The need for the set was discovered several weeks ago, when a number of children were in the hospital, recuperating from polio, and time hung rather heavily on their hands.

One of the girls, Carol Robb, of Bessemer, was visited by Mrs. James A. Hewitt, who teaches at the Hillside school, and told Mrs. Hewitt in response to a query as to what the children would like, that a television set would be most acceptable. The hospital came home and told her husband, who is Junior Vice-Commander of the Legion of Honor, about the need, and it was taken back to the organization, with the result that the members unanimously decided to make it one of their projects.

Friday afternoon, the set was hooked up, and was accepted by Mr. Friedheim in behalf of the little patients, who will receive much enjoyment from it in the future.

Sen. Vandenberg Has Comfortable Night

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 3.—(INS)—Michigan's Senator Arthur Vandenberg today was described as "still in very poor condition" although he spent a more comfortable night.

The Republican statesman's physician, Dr. A. B. Smith, said there has been "no improvement" in the senator's condition since he suffered a relapse early this week.

Vandenberg suffered the relapse while convalescing in his Grand Rapids home from a lung ailment. He had undergone a series of operations about a year ago and made only a few appearances in Washington since then. The Foreign Affairs leader is 66 years old.

An attempt by former Premier Georges Bidault to form a new government in the present crisis also failed.

Believes Draft Induction Age Will Be Set At 18

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(INS)—The floor manager of the senate's draft bill predicted today that an amendment to ban the induction of youths under 18½ years will be defeated "by a substantial margin."

The senate votes at 2 p. m. Monday on the proposal, sponsored by Sen. Morse (R) Ore., in a test that will provide a clue to administration strength on the draft-universal military training bill.

Begin At 18
Forecasting rejection of the Morse amendment, the floor manager, Sen. Johnson (D) Tex., said the senate will support the plan to begin inductions at 18 years of age.

G.O.P. Senator Says Limit On Troops To Fail

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(INS)—A top Republican senator conceded today that any GOP attempt to put a legal limit on American troops sent to Europe is doomed to failure.

Senate GOP policy leader Taft, O., said he is now uncertain as to whether such a limit should be proposed in the senate. Sen. Ken (R) Mo., said if the proposal should come up for approval now, "it would not get over 20 votes."

Taft said he would not "propose" such a step at this time but he added:

"If the (Democrats) should try to shut us off, we might want to try to put a limitation on the draft bill."

The Ohioan said he would prefer to wait and see whether the foreign relations and armed services committees accept a limitation in the final draft of their troops resolution.

The joint group is expected to produce a resolution generally approving the dispatch of additional U. S. troops to Gen. Eisenhower's defense force and arguing the president to "make certain" Europe is doing its share.

Kem's argument against trying to force a "rider" on the draft bill was that opposition to the troop commitment would be stronger later on.

U.N. Forces In Central Korea Hold Positions

Reinforced Reds Fail To Gain Ground In Latest Attacks

By LEE FERRERO
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

TOKYO, March 4.—(Sunday)—Reinforced Communist troops counter-attacked strongly at several points along Korea's blazing central front Saturday but United Nations forces held their positions in hand-to-hand fighting and made small gains in some areas.

The fiercest engagement of the day erupted on the east-central front five miles northwest of Pongnim when 500 North Koreans made a frenzied attack on American Seventh Division positions through a rain of artillery fire.

Rout Reds with Bayonet

The American infantrymen routed the Reds after a vicious bayonet fight and were believed to have killed about 250 of them.

Above Hoengsong, mid-Korean road hub 17 miles west of Pongnim, U. S. First Division marines advanced two and a half miles, maintaining their grip on commanding high ground.

Fresh Red hordes were thrown against the marines but a Ninth Corps spokesman said leatherneck columns fanning out from Hoengsong all reached their "day's objectives" by 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon (2 a.m. Saturday EST). The Reds, acting under high orders to beat back the Allied "Operation Killer," staged four separate counter-thrusts in the area four to nine miles southeast of Hoengsong between midnight and dawn.

Republic of Korea (ROK) Third Division troops turned aside the first series of Red attacks and a fifth counter-thrust was launched by the enemy at 9:30 a.m. Results of this engagement were not immediately known.

Counter-Attacks Made

International News Service War Correspondent Frank Coniff reported the North Koreans made their counter-attack northwest of Pongnim with 500 men. He said at

Meteor Lands Near Air Base

LAS VEGAS, Nev., March 3.—(INS)—A meteor that lit up the sky with a brilliance seen as far away as Mt. Palomar in southern California exploded last night near the Nellis Air Force Base, eight miles northeast of Las Vegas. The observer at the weather station at the Las Vegas airport said the meteor came in from the north with a blue flash. Then near Sunrise Mountain, a short distance from the air base, it disintegrated with a brilliant orange flash.

The meteor exploded only mild interest in Las Vegas, which recently had a ringside seat at a series of atomic explosions on the desert test range to the northwest.

Three Detroit Boys Suffocate

Caught In Cave-in Of Sewer Excavation

DETROIT, March 3.—(INS)—Funeral arrangements were made today by grief-stricken parents of three young Detroit boys who suffocated in a sewer excavation cave-in yesterday.

The youngsters, the oldest five years old, were walking along the edge of the new excavation when the soggy clay suddenly caved in, burying the three boys.

Too Late To Save Boys
Frantic parents, workmen, police and neighbors claved at the earth with their hands, but they were too late to save the children. The victims were Jimmy Tucker, 3; Robert Murphy, 5; and Daryl Wertz, 4.

Police said the accident occurred only about 45 minutes after workmen had removed their digging equipment.

Arthur Mometer

March is a maid in the teen age bracket, whimsical, changeable, never the same, smiles for a minute and shows you some spring time, sends out a wind and a hatful of rain. Breezy as youth and of course unpredictable, warms you and chills you and laughs in your face, flirts with King Winter and borrows his ice imps, sends down some snowflakes to cover the place. Thirty one days in the month and you'll notice, never a pair that will go the same way, but March is a maid and you can't plumb her thinking, it's a mixture and 30, cooler today.

School children crossing at North and North Jefferson streets Friday were given the assistance of New Castle's woman police officer, Miss Mary Jane Nord, it was observed by Pa Newc. Motorists seemed prompt in obeying lady cop's signal as she led the youngsters back and forth across the busy intersection.

In a local establishment, Pa Newc noted a sign which could be placed in the odd sights department. The sign read curtly, "No Personal Checks Cashied."

City workmen were engaged today in various residential and business districts removing the accumulations of ashes which had been placed on the streets during slippery weather. The work improved the looks of the streets.

Many churches about the district which normally conduct Sunday night services will be darkened tomorrow evening due to the co-operative campaign which is in progress at the Cathedral. All services except Sunday morning meetings have been canceled in many churches.

Although the weather has been most springlike for the past week, some ground squirrels have evidently not come out of hibernation as yet. Workmen digging a sewer trench alongside a Winter avenue home found one nestled up in a ball of leaves. It was quite sluggish when first dug out, but when taken into the house where it was warmer, it quickly livened up.

Just in case you can't remember that far back, temperatures a year ago today were extremely cold, a mark of six above being recorded March 3 last year. It was down to five above on March 4, some of the worst weather of the winter being experienced in March last year.

According to a new sign that has made its appearance on the site at South Mercer and South streets, work on the construction of the long pending new building for the Bell Telephone Company there is to be started soon.

Boy Who Lived On 'Borrowed Time' Taken By Death

CHICAGO, March 3.—(INS)—Three-year-old Jimmy Carco, who drew the prayers of thousands of Chicagoans while he lived on borrowed time, died last night in his sleep.

Stricken six months ago with a malignant brain tumor, the boy had faded from a robust 45 pounds to 10 pounds. Doctors performed two operations, then told his parents—James Sr., 29, and Marietta, 28—that they could only try to keep Jimmy "comfortable" until he died.

But the parents refused to give up hope for their only child. Between them they kept a 24-hour vigil at his bedside and they appealed for prayers from others.

"Jimmy groups" formed in churches and clubs and more than 1,000 persons wrote or telephoned to say they were including the boy in their daily prayers.

for clauses in effect before Jan. 25 were exempt from the formula.

The auto workers will benefit immediately and the electrical workers will become eligible when the bureau of labor statistics index is issued April 15.

Enmity Tempored

Johnston's exemption order apparently tempered organized labor's enmity toward the pay formula but labor leaders said they will continue to press for more representation in the mobilization program before they end their present total boycott.

Their demands include a new 18-member wage stabilization board which would settle contract disputes during the emergency and, in addition, set wage policy.

Labor officials, however, considered the inclusion of escalator clauses in the wage formula a partial victory.

"NEVER HEARD SUCH LYING" DECLARES PROBE CHAIRMAN

Sen. Hoey (D) N. C., "may be the proper agency to do the job".

Fulbright said he felt that he had disproved President Truman's declaration that the subcommittee's report was asinine and therefore wanted to wind up the investigation.

Concerning the testimony he has heard in the last two weeks, he remarked:

Conflicting Stories

"I never heard such lying in my life. Time after time we were faced with conflicting stories. The reaction to these things has led me to believe that something more should be done on a broader scale, but I'm not going to spend the rest of my life on this cockeyed thing."

The daily transcript of the hearings is being sent to the justice department for study with an eye to possible perjury action. Friday, Fulbright made a point of the fact that a quorum of the subcommittee was present—a legal necessity in perjury cases—during testimony by Joseph Rosenbaum, Washington attorney charged with influence peddling for high fees.

Denies Accusations

Rosenbaum flatly denied on the witness stand yesterday that he had ever claimed that he had two RFC directors—William E. Willett and Walter L. Dunham—"in his hip's pocket". Other witnesses claimed Rosenbaum had made such a boast.

Fulbright said that he saw too much of a tendency to brush off unsavory deals in the government as "not illegal". Commenting on the fact that a fur coat for the White House stenographer wife of E. Merl Young, another witness accused of influence peddling, was paid for by Rosenbaum, he said, "It was not illegal for Mr. Rosenbaum to pay for that coat. But I think it was highly improper. It looks as though the time has come for a general examination of the standards of conduct of government."

Ellport Man Is Discovered Dead

Believed to have been dead since February 23, the lifeless body of Andy Mesko, aged 65 years, of 63 Martin avenue, who lived alone, Ellport, was found seated in a chair in the kitchen of his home, by neighbors Friday afternoon. Deputy Coroner Robert G. Dambach is conducting an investigation.

The gas was burning in the oven of the kitchen stove, and also under a pot on the top of the stove, where he had evidently been cooking his meal, and had burned clear through the bottom of the pot.

The body was removed to the Patton funeral home to be prepared for burial.

least half of that number were believed killed.

Conniff said 3,000 rounds of artillery were poured into the attack Reds but they did not stop until a Seventh Division infantry battalion led by Col. William Buffalo Bill Quinn met them with Bayonets.

Other Red positions where 3,000 Communists were reported dug in north of the Seventh division also were hit by the artillery.

In the battle for the stretch of road between Pangnim and Changpyong an American armored patrol advanced to within a half mile of Changpyong which lies 26 miles below the 38th Parallel.

Freezing weather settled over the front as the Reds showed increasing signs of resistance.

Violent Artillery Battle

On the western front a violent artillery battle erupted between red forces in war-blackened Seoul and American Third Division guns on the south bank of the Han river.

Red prisoners captured by advancing UN troops reported that the tempo of enemy defensive efforts was stepped up on orders of the Chinese Communist high command.

But far to the northwest of the central front behind enemy lines, Republic of Korea (ROK) troops caught the Reds napping and seized three 38th Parallel border cities.

ROK army intelligence officers led the guerrillas in commando-type operations which hit three towns: Pyongsan, 20 miles north of the 38th Parallel; Yonan, five miles south of the parallel and 50 miles northwest of Seoul; and Paekchon, four miles south of the border.

Strike at Enemy's Rear

INS War Correspondent Young H. Lee reported that the anti-Red guerrillas were following a set pattern of seizing an enemy town, destroying supplies and communications and then taking to the hills. Naval sources said many such blows have been struck at the enemy's rear recently but have not been publicized.

The anti-Red guerrillas also landed on the island of Kanghwa off Korea's west coast near the Kimpo peninsula which stretches to the northwest from Seoul.

On the central front, enemy reinforcements were moved up to strengthen Red defenses in the Hoengsong-Yongdu-Yongchon triangle.

Hongchon, a Chinese Communist assembly point 14 miles northwest of Hoengsong and 47 miles east-northeast of Seoul, is the key point in what is believed to be the enemy's main defensive area on the central front.

Prisoners told Allied intelligence officers that Red troops were acting under high command orders to increase their efforts to hold the area.

of the General Assembly agreed to a system of inspection, but that Russia refused. He added:

"If the Soviet government really wanted the world to know the facts about the level of armaments, it would withdraw its opposition to this program."

"The census might have been completed by now and such statements as those made by the Soviet government in its recent note to Britain would have been unnecessary and impossible in face of authenticated facts."

In its note to London regarding a deputy foreign ministers' meeting of the big four powers, Russia charged that the west had more men under arms than the Russians.

Real Issue Seen
Nash stressed the importance of verification of arms census, even when it conflicted with national interest.

He said:

"The real issue, of course, is whether or not the Soviet government will agree to a system of inspection. The commission (on conventional armaments) has stated that the requirements of verification must be paramount in any issues involving conflict between disclosure of information and adequate verification."

Nash said the U.S. is ready to begin work at once on a foolproof census of troops and non-atomic arms, provided Russia is willing. He said work could begin on Monday, adding:

"Much of the groundwork has already been done. The sole remaining obstacle to practical results is Soviet obstruction. If the Soviet government will remove that barrier, the world can immediately take the first step toward real progress toward reduction and regulation of armaments."

Sen. Johnson (D) Texas, manager of the legislation, told newsmen he is confident the upper chamber will kill the amendment, offered by Sen. Morse (R) Ore. Johnson said:

"I expect it will be defeated by a substantial margin."

By rejecting the 18½-year proviso, the senate would retain the proposal to make 18 the starting age for the draft.

Other amendments to change the minimum induction age could be offered, although none are as yet in the offing.

Mrs. Arthur Eckles presided at the business session. The clothing project for Hazel Green academy, Kentucky, was completed, plans being made to pack a box of clothing.

Tasty refreshments were served from an attractively appointed table, decorated with shamrocks and a cake, encircled with candles. A St. Patrick's Day favor marked each place. Mrs. Harold McEwen and Mrs. Moulton Ferguson served as hostesses.

Mrs. Amos Myer and Mrs. Ralph Newingham will be hostesses Friday evening, April 6, when the group gathers at the church.

PEACE OR PERISH

Among those who oppose the use of atomic bombs in war none are more sincere in their demands than the scientists who fashioned the first bombs, and who have been working diligently since to make them more destructive. The men who watched the explosion of the first atomic bomb at Alamogordo, New Mexico, in 1945, were so terrified by what they saw they immediately decided they must frighten mankind against its use.

It has been revealed they urged President Truman not to use the bomb against Japan. When the Hiroshima blast was set off these scientists were appalled. After the Nagasaki explosion they were fearful lest the age of atomic warfare had come, and would some day destroy the world.

These scientists have since been devoting some of their energies and knowledge to warnings to people of America against use of the bomb lest they themselves perish by it. As they see it, the world must adhere to peace or perish.

They hold that atomic energy can bring what they term the golden age, when this great force can be harnessed to make human life more pleasant and secure.

Admitting they have made little progress in their efforts to relegate the atom bomb as a weapon of war, these scientists say mankind must be willing to do away with war, and to create understanding between nations which will insure permanent peace. Mankind must live constructively instead of destructively, if it is not to vanish from the face of the earth, they say.

Unfortunately, the plotters in the Kremlin cannot hear them, or if they hear their voices understand what they are saying.

REDS AREN'T SUPERMEN

In testifying in favor of sending American ground forces to Europe, without restrictions that might hamper future military decisions, General Lucius D. Clay spoke both as a soldier and as a man who has had wide experience in dealing with the Russians.

As a military leader, Clay expressed substantially the same views that other high army, navy and air force officers have expressed—that building up European ground forces is necessary to make Russian aggressions seem "unprofitable," and that American participation in this build-up is essential.

As an old diplomatic sparring partner of the Russians, General Clay had other views worthy of study by Congress. The Russians, he said, aren't supermen; there's no need to think that Europe, with American help, cannot build up ground forces strong enough to resist a Russian land attack effectively.

In that opinion, Clay appears to differ with former President Herbert Hoover, who testified recently before the Senate committees that American troops might be "massacred" if they were sent to Europe. It will be a big job to erect a European army powerful enough to avoid being overwhelmed, but in the opinion of Clay and other military leaders, it can be done, and must be done for our own security.

STATE'S VISITORS SPEND HUGE SUM

Care and feeding of tourists has developed into a major industry in most states. Pennsylvania's figures, for instance, show an increase of $300,000,000 in the money spent annually by travelers over the past ten years.

In view of keeping, and possibly increasing, this revenue, the Pennsylvania Department of Highways is emphasizing courtesy and consideration toward motorists. Publicity booklets outlining highway improvements, cards handed out at traffic barriers explaining the reasons for delays or detours, bulletins sent to hotels, garages, filling stations and post offices, showing where detours exist, and polite treatment from police officers at all times make up some details of the campaign.

Such a project is really a major contribution to traffic safety, as well as to the encouragement of tourists. These methods of promoting good will at the same time cut down on causes for irritation and annoyance. An irritated driver is always slightly off the beam, slower to react in danger and less completely in control of his car.

Programs such as this in Pennsylvania will not only make for pleasanter travel, but also for progress in safety.

TROUBLE WITH NEIGHBORS

Dictator Tito's rebellion against the domination of Moscow has set a precedent which other nations may follow to gravely menace Russian control on Europe. Tito, himself a Communist dictator, is not opposing communism as a way of government, but has set his hand against Russian conquest of Yugoslavia.

His attitude has brought unrest and threats of rebellion in practically all the Communist countries. Moscow leaders are known to be raging with anger, and have ordered purges in satellite countries in an effort to put an end to the uprisings.

There is political unrest in virtually every country presumed to be friendly to Russia. In addition to Yugoslavia, revolt have come from Eastern Germany, Western Germany, Italy, Poland, Hungary, Bulgaria and Romania. There is trouble in Communist ranks in Italy and France.

In addition, Russia is not too sure of its position in China. Before Russia can attempt to rule the world, it must succeed in controlling its closest neighbors, a job which seems to be keeping Moscow reasonably busy at the moment.

In View Of News Of The World

By J. C. OESTREICHER, INS Foreign Director

Speculate On Russia's Course

Soviet Russia has agreed to preliminary discussions by deputies in Paris to frame an agenda for a new big four conference and there is every indication that the Kremlin will take one or two decisive courses.

One might be a virtual diplomatic divorce between east and west. The other might be an at least temporary demonstration of Russian willingness to reach agreements to lessen world tension and eliminate some of the present inequities defacing civilization.

Which of these hypotheses will emerge in reality is entirely unpredictable.

Much Speculation
International speculation following the Soviet acceptance is balanced between cautious optimism and downright pessimism.

But superficially, at least, the Russians show signs of taking this preliminary conference seriously.

They will send a sizeable delegation to Paris for the sessions beginning Monday. It will be headed by Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko—possibly an appointment of great significance.

Gromyko is best known to the western world for his action in the walking out of the United Nations when the United States did not go the way he wanted.

He himself must know that the western powers at this time are in a frame of mind to emulate his action should Russia try to use the Paris meeting for propaganda.

Expect "Peace Offensive"
The United States, Great Britain and France will go into this conference fully prepared to encounter a so-called Soviet "peace offensive" and treat it on its real merits—if any.

If this proves to be the sole purpose of Gromyko's flight from Moscow to the Duchesse de Talleyrand's pink palace on the Champs Elysees—the site of the conference—the parley is being written off in advance as a failure.

But there is one encouraging sign as to possibly concrete intentions. London reports say the Soviets will inject the problem of Trieste into any discussion of an Austrian peace treaty. The western allies have announced that they favor return of this important Adriatic port to Italy.

If the Russians take an opposite stand, it will be another augury of non-success. But the Kremlin's almost-bloody feud with Marshal Tito renders it unlikely that the Soviets would be active in supporting any Yugoslavian claims.

One Peculiar Aspect
There is one peculiar aspect of the Russian acceptance at this particular time, however.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CHILD FOLLOWS PARENTS IN RELIGION

Many of us have sung that great old hymn which begins, "O, God, our strength in ages past. Our hope in times to come. We need to sing it now all over our land and a deeper prayer in our hearts. Faith in God and fervent worship of Him is what America and our sister nations who love peace and liberty need most now.

I know that a few of my readers don't feel this way about it. I have to quarrel with their convictions as mine. But I also know that most of my readers believe that the Lord God of Hosts is the greatest source of our strength. If we will but turn to Him with all our hearts, the people is that so many of us are only half-hearted about our religion and that, therefore, our children are. We need to remember that we are threatened by a godless foe and we are calling upon the flower of our youth to defend the liberties we cherish for ourselves and for the world.

Powerful Weapons
True, we can arm our men with powerful weapons and train them in the art of defense. But we also need to cast for them the armor of God. If they are to be invincible. In this all of us, especially all of our parents, can help, and without money and without price.

Let us build altars to God in our homes and, with our children, worship Him there. It could be a real altar or something to symbolize it. It need not be anything of a material sort. It could be the kitchen table, the dining room table, the fireside, the living room, the bedroom; any place indoors or outdoors where we commune with God, and feel His loving presence.

Spiritual Resources
We parents need to go to church with our children. Especially do we fathers and grandfathers need to go, not only as an example to these children but also to cultivate our own spiritual resources and be more lovingly to live with a home. Consider what it must mean to the son in the Armed Forces as he muses and sees in his imagination his father and mother and the rest of the family going regularly to church and hears them praying for him at home around the family altar, and is so sure there are also many silent individual prayers for him anytime, anywhere.

Of course, some of us must be careful lest in our zeal we make religion repellent instead of attractive to our children, now at home or away from home. As we grow more religious, we need to grow more loving and companionable to our children. We need to win their growing affection and abiding esteem. Therefore, all the things we have emphasized over the years in this column should help us toward that end. Consider that prayer I once wrote for myself as parent, I have epitomized the highspots for winning and inspiring our children to choose those things precious to us. A copy of this prayer may be had by sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to me at 235 East 45th Street, New York, N. Y. I'm sure it has helped me.

Washington Calling

(By MARQUIS CHILDS)

To Send Food To India

WASHINGTON, March 3 — A happy example of the vitality of one of America's oldest and best traditions can be seen in the actions that Congress is preparing to take on food for India.

At the outbreak of the war, there may be some unfortunate last-minute developments, present indications are for passage of a measure providing for immediate shipment of wheat to relieve an imminent famine.

This will not be easy. It cannot be done by waving a wand. As witnesses have made clear in hearings before a congressional committee, the shortage of freight cars and of shipping will necessitate a system of priorities on the railroads and restoring ships of the mothball fleet to service.

What Is Really Important
But what is really important is that we can take this step. And equally important is the fact that most members of Congress in both parties appear to be willing to put aside partisan considerations on both the national and international level for humanitarian reasons.

At the outset there was a misunderstanding about the position of the State Department. In his first appearance before the Senate Foreign Relations committee on the Indian food issue Assistant Secretary of State George McGhee wanted senators to understand that the department was consulting them in advance before a final decision. As a consequence the department was wrongly interpreted as declining to take a stand on the problem.

All along the line there appears to have been mature cooperation in advancing a project so essential to hold stability in non-Communist Asia. In supporting the advice and support of Herbert Hoover, President Truman followed a statesmanlike course. This game, it should be noted, in the midst of a warm debate between the President and the former president on the issue of troops for Europe.

As for Mr. Hoover, he took the stand he has so often taken in the past, reflecting a deep conviction of America's willingness to respond to the aid of peoples in desperate need regardless of color, creed or politics. This, it might be added, represents what is truest and best in Mr. Hoover's own career.

Two Herbert Hoovers
There are two Herbert Hoovers. One is the timid defeatist. The other is the unflinching humanitarian who knows how to organize so skillfully for humanitarian action. Too often we forget, as the masters of the Kremlin want the world to forget, that it was Mr. Hoover who organized the relief of the Russian famine of 1919-20. Millions of lives were saved by the efficient organization of American generosity. Despite the official hatred incessantly propagated by the Soviet regime no one can doubt that the memory of that generosity still lives in the hearts and minds of the Russian people. In passing it should be said that if this tradition is allowed to die or is brushed aside as a result of present tensions, both America and the world will be infinitely poorer. That there is a danger of this is seen in a statement calling for investigation of a leak of a small amount of typhus vaccine through the blockade imposed against Communist China. That is pushing economic warfare very far.

If the present mature approach to the problem of helping India feed its starving people, no political conditions will be attached to the offer of grain from the United States. Such conditions would be likely to make the gift worse than useless in view of the surging tide of nationalism in Asia today.

Must Alter Situation
But this does not mean that diplomatic pressures cannot be applied with skill and tact to alter a situation which must be corrected. This is true above all of the rivalry and bitter hostility between India and Pakistan over the disputed princely state of Kashmir. The continuing conflict means a great burden in the defense budgets of both countries. It has set India to trying to achieve self-sufficiency in the agricultural products that Pakistan must export to live. Fortunately, India and Pakistan have now signed a trade agreement ending a dispute that had brought trade between the two countries to a virtual standstill.

In my opinion the greater concession must come from the Indians who have far less of an economic stake in Kashmir. They must prove that they can rise above the animosities of recent years. Great Britain and the United States have put before the U.N. a new proposal for settling the Kashmir dispute. If both sides dismiss it, as they now seem inclined to do, the grain that America sends to India is likely to be the most temporary stopgap to misery and political breakdown.

We have just observed in America a humanitarian week. It is indeed as a reminder primarily to us here at home that all men are brothers. But the approach that is being taken to the dire need in a country half-way around the world is a reminder that the world in its true sense cannot be confined by national boundaries.

State Police Say:

In tests conducted by state police, many cases of defective vision have been discovered of which the individual was wholly unaware. For example, persons who have "tunnel vision" cannot see to the sides as they look straight ahead. This condition may lead to accidents at intersections, etc. Others may have poor glare resistance or poor night vision. An examination by an eye specialist will point out any deficiency in your vision.

"He Was A Citizen"

By PAUL GALLICO

One day last summer we were driving through the Austrian Tyrol between Salzburg and Innsbruck and we came to a road block at the entrance of the little town of Wurgl and pulled our car up at the side of the street to wait for a funeral procession to go by.

Surely, we thought, it must be the funeral of a very important man from the size and make-up of the procession, the band, the costumes, the officials and above all the number of mourners who trailed behind the coffin.

The village fathers were out in force, wearing their gold chains and emblems of office, the women were in the costume of the country with tall, stove-pipe hats wound with many ribbons and skirts thick with petticoats; they bore flags and banners and devices and most in the long parade carried torches. So many were there following the hearse that the village must have been emptied of all but dogs and children in arms. Anyone and everyone who could walk was there to pay respect to the departed.

Speculated On Position

We were curious and speculated as to the position and departed grandeur of the one who was being buried. Surely either a very rich man, or important in the community, perhaps the mayor himself, or some party bigwig. For he was being accompanied by his last rest by people from every trade and walk in life, and of every age.

At last, as the procession moved on, an old man with a long beard and a crooked pipe, marching in the rear, and asked him who was being buried and what manner of person he had been to call forth an entire town to accompany him on his final journey.

With dignity and a touching simplicity he turned to us and replied:

"A citizen of Wurgl."
Later on we stopped in the town and again I inquired about the deceased and what had been his exalted station in life. At this time I was told, "Oh, he was no one of great importance except to us. He was only a merchant."

The other day it all came back to me and in my mind I saw again the tiny village with its gay balconies, geranium laden, all that painted frescoes on the walls of the houses and the long solemn cortege. And I heard once more the tones of the old man as he said so solemnly, "He was a citizen of Wurgl." And I remembered that seldom had so much of importance and individual dignity been bestowed upon a departed.

Starts Us Wondering

And that all started me wondering about us here in the big town and our way of life, the hassles we get into competing for a buck and the running around we do trying to make a traffic light and all that business of keeping up with the neighbors and out-living, out-automobile, out-dressing and out-socializing the next fellow and what does it all amount to when they come to lay you away amongst the sweet peas? And for all our fussing and competing and struggling, who amongst us gets such a beautiful epitaph, a turn-out of all the folks and neighbors because we lived as a citizen in their midst and therefore once belong to them and to their lives.

Even in a small town when a man cashes in his chips, he may be able to collect a small gathering of friends while the Dominie makes a few respectful remarks with regard to the earthly accomplishments of the departed, but somehow nothing seems to add up to the love and respect and achievement of the supreme in human dignity contained in that one line, "He was a citizen."

Encompasses Everything

For it seems to me that this encompasses everything good and noble in the lifetime of a man. To have an entire community or neighborhood proud that you lived amongst them so that they turn out in a body to bid farewell is a true measure of living.

This "citizen" of the little Austrian town must have lived a full life, not all saint, not all sinner, but the white predominating over the black. He had had his problems and made his mistakes, raised a family, lent a hand to others in difficulties and encountered the same pitfalls to which all human beings are prone.

But the balance must have been always on the side of the ledger favoring what cultured and educated man is proud to call the citizen. He abided by the law, he loved his home, his street, his neighborhood, his village, his county and his country. But somehow one also caught the flavor that citizenship to him meant also friendliness, for when he died, those toward whom he had acted as a good citizen were also his good neighbors and his good friends. And they encompassed an entire town.

I am not trying to say that this foreign man who lived and died in a foreign land was any better than we, or that their customs and feelings are better than ours. I am just telling what came to my mind as I thought of the endlessly long cortege and what the old man with the beard and the crooked pipe had to say about who was being buried. Looking At Life

By ERICH BRANDEIS

It would be a very good thing, if not too many youngsters of school age read the report by Professor Henry D. Ogden on the subject of headaches.

Educated people get more headaches than the less educated, he discovered in a survey and if you want to be almost completely free of headaches, be a farmer.

Surveys are a wonderful institution. But they can be just like statistics. They can be very accurate and they can be awful liars.

To our government they are a blessing. To our public payroll are kept busy on nothing but surveys, and thus political debts are conveniently paid off. By the same statistics many different things can be proven.

However, I was talking about headaches.

Another fact the good professor discovered is that bachelors have more headaches than married men.

He doesn't seem to know why. I do.

I certainly had more headaches when I was a bachelor than I have now. Nine times out of ten they were the morning-after-the-night-before kind.

They were easy to cure. A good night's sleep usually did the trick. The headaches I have now—and you probably have the same experiences—are not so easy to remedy.

They occur regularly each year around March 15th, and often around the first of each month when the mailman brings the bills.

I am afraid there will be quite a general increase in headaches if Mr. Truman sends many more requests for tax increases to Congress.

The professor also found that women have more headaches than men.

You know, of course, that most women's headaches are caused by men.

And, undoubtedly—although the professor didn't say so—married women have more headaches than bachelorettes.

An unmarried woman is not as apt to tell her man that he gives her a headache as a wife would.

A man can give his wife a headache merely by complaining that she hasn't boiled his eggs long enough.

Young persons, according to the survey, get more headaches than older ones.

Since there are more bachelors among young people than among old ones, that is quite understandable.

Next to a hangover, being in love is quite apt to give one a headache.

Now that I am almost at the end of this highly educational article you naturally want to know how to avoid headaches.

Well, according to my interpretation of the professor's survey, the best way is not to have a head. (Copyright, 1951, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Senior High School Players To Present Comedy On March 9

Annual school play at the senior high school is scheduled for public performance March 9 in the evening at the school auditorium on Lincoln avenue. A three-act comedy, "Henrietta the Eighth," by Kurtz Gordon, has been chosen by Miss Clara Hartuff and her dramatic classes for the occasion.

The play has a good plot and the interest from start to finish develops with the suspense of a good detective story. The Coke crowd that dash in and out of the elegant living room which is the sole stage set for the performance, are as jazzy as the Blitz Brothers who gallop on stage for a swift spot of jitter-bugging from time to time. Coke bottles accumulate and then disappear and appear again. Wagish banter multiplies endlessly. And a good evening of harmless fun will come to an end all too soon.

Added to the cast of fifteen plus, mostly youthful but with none who are juvenile, various rather corny stage devices come in for effective repetition. There is a boy whose neckties you get to know in advance is going to be confiscated and burned by the girl he adores, because his color scheme never quite meets her approval. There is the engagement ring, a perennial focus of attention, that flashes around until each of the two settles on the proper finger of the right girl. There is a good melodramatic villain—a female in smart clothing at that—who moves toward a triumphant climax and then is soundly thwarted. There is a succession of departing cooks who contemplate the ways of the household with despair. There is also the impression of a succession of departing secretaries, ditto.

"Henrietta the Eighth" gets its name from the only one of the latter series, who actually appears on the stage. She is the heroine who creates order out of chaos and comes to the final curtain with the prospect of living happily ever after—albeit not as a secretary.

TIGHT HOUSING

CHICAGO, (INS)—The housing situation, already tight in many urban areas, is likely to get worse before it gets better. The National Association of Housing Officials pointed out that there's going to be an increase in the number of new families seeking living quarters of their own in 1951. This, coupled with the anticipated curtailment of residential construction as a result of the international situation, is going to make it difficult for new families to find a place to live.

"VOUCHERS SHOWING THAT the Institute of Pacific Relations received money direct from Moscow were among the thousands of documents seized by U. S. Senate Red hunters in last week's raid on a barn in Lee (Mass.)," according to a story in the Boston American. Exclusive American photos (above) revealed that the raided barn on the summer estate of Edward C. Carter, former executive secretary of the institute, was much more than just a barn, the paper said. Maps of Russia and Russian war relief posters adorned the walls of a "conference room" inside the red barn. There also was a well-kept library and a complete set of files from which the Senate agents took almost 800,000 documents. (International Soundphotos)

FOUR CREATIONS attracting considerable attention in spring fashions now showing in Paris are pictured above. The cocktail dress by Schiaparelli is copper colored taffeta. The hem of the fluted skirt is raised over the shoulders and worn as a stole. Yards of organza make the graceful pleated flare which starts just below the hips of the tight fitting gray organza light spring coat by Jacques Griffe. The model wears a matching gray organza bowler hat. Paquin's slim, black alpaca cocktail suit is worn with a white organdy blouse and jabot. The sharp lines created by the hat and jacket ending bear out the name of the creation, "Perfide." Mad Carpentier's "Milord L'Arrouille" is a smart gray flannel suit with a straight skirt, three-quarter jacket and elbow-length sleeves, worn with a black and white striped cotton scarf and black patent leather belt. The black straw hat and veil worn by the model were designed by Alboury. (International)

Estimate Auto Production For Month At 575,000

DETROIT, March 3.—(INS)—Ward's automotive reports estimated today 575,000 cars will be produced this month, a jump of 70,000 units over the February turnout.

The predicted March production will surpass the goal assembled in the same month last year. However, Ward's said, this schedule is far below the all-time high of 720,000 cars built in June last year.

This week's U. S. production included an estimated 138,651 cars and 31,897 trucks for a total of 170,548, as compared with last week's total of 115,889 cars and 32,978 trucks. Last week's high output resulted from heavy overtime work.

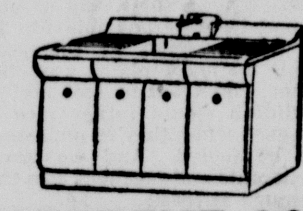

The one-millionth U. S. passenger car was built this week, several days before the same milestone was reached last year.

Third Class Cities Endorse Hearings On All Rate Increases

HARRISBURG, March 3.—(INS)—Legislation to compel the Public Utility Commission to stage hearings on all applications for rate increases was endorsed today by the League of Third Class Cities.

The league's legislative committee also voted to support bi-partisan fair employment practices bills before the General Assembly at a meeting yesterday at Harrisburg.

Officials of the 47 cities in the league took no stand on the city manager form of government because no bill has been introduced on the subject yet this session.

A senate bill introduced by Joseph Yosko (D) Northampton, automatically halting utility rate increases for six months pending PUC investigation was backed by spokesmen from Duquesne and Clairton. A $2,700,000 Pittsburgh Railways Co. rate boost instituted without a PUC hearing affected the two Allegheny county communities.

Five-Year-Old Girl May Give Clue To Bank Robber Group

ROSELLE, Ill., March 3.—(INS)—Five-year-old Cathy Burchard just doesn't have time for her playmates in Roselle today—she is too busy talking to FBI agents, police and bankers who want to know about her "cowboy friends."

The "friends" held Cathy hostage yesterday while they locked her mother and 11 other patrons and employees in the vault of the Roselle State Bank and took $20,000 in cash and $5,000 in traveler's checks. They released her before fleeing in a car driven by a confederate.

The little girl said the two bandits propped her in a chair as they emptied tellers' cages—and the lookout even waved to her when she glanced out the window.

Federal agents and officials of the Illinois Bankers Association will show Cathy photographs of known bank robbers today in hopes she can identify the "cowboys."

It was she who provided police with a description of the robbers' get-away car and said they fled toward Chicago, 25 miles to the East.

Canadian Planes Will Be Purchased

WASHINGTON, March 3.—(INS)—The air force announced today that a Canadian plane has been selected in competition with eight American types for certain liaison purposes, and that an undisclosed number of the Canadian craft will be purchased.

The plane is the DHC-2 "Beaver," manufactured by the De-Havilland Aircraft company of Toronto.

It was selected by judges at Wright Patterson air force base, Dayton, O. The air force said: "The evaluation board, consisting of both army and air force officers, found the 'Beaver' to be superior in tactical suitability and design and maintenance features. Early delivery is anticipated as no major design changes will be necessary."

The "Beaver" is a high-winged, single-engine monoplane with an American motor. It is powered by a 450 horse power Pratt & Whitney R-985 motor and has a top speed of about 170 miles per hour.

WHY GARLIC?

Every country seems to have its own style of cooking. Each one seems to have its own tastes and smells.

Some of the strong flavors serve a good purpose. There are some kinds of food which are cheap and nourishing but do not taste very good.

These strong flavors cover up the bad taste and doll things up pretty well.

Mom gets a cheap (?) piece of meat. She makes a soup or stew. She puts a lot of tastes and smells in it. Dad comes home and asks what's cookin'. He has just as good a time as if he had a big Porterhouse.

Mom figures on the calories and the good tastes. Butch and Dad furnish the appetite and the music.

FACING THE FACTS

Tippy, the four-months-old cocker spaniel, was the pride and joy of four-year-old Danny Thomas. So, when Tippy accidentally got out of the yard during Danny's naptime and was run over by a passing truck, Mrs. Thomas was frantic. Hysterically, she called her husband's office. "You've got to get another puppy just like Tippy," she told her husband. "And get him up here before Danny wakes up. He'll be heartbroken."

But the well-meant deception didn't work. Though the new Tippy looked the same to Mrs. Thomas, Danny wasn't fooled. And he wanted to see the "real" Tippy even though he had been run over. It took some time for Danny to feel happy about the situation. He seemed to act as though his mother was responsible for what happened—that in some way or other she had been responsible for Tippy's death. Even at four-years-old his main complaint was, "But, mother, you tried to fool me!"

Children would rather face the facts even when they're unpleasant, than be fooled. And we grown-ups, parents and teachers owe them this much at least.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

(Letters intended for this column must be signed with name and address of writer.)

THANKS TO GASTON POST

Deshon V. A. Hospital
Butler, Pa.
February 23, 1951

New Castle News
N. Mercer St.
New Castle, Pa.
Dear Sir:

The patients in the T.B. section of our hospital should be grateful to you if you would kindly grant us space in "The News" publicly to thank the American Legion Perry S. Gaston Post 343 for last evening's musical entertainment and gift of cigarettes.

Actually, though, the Legion members who were here last night did more than hand out smokes and "make with the music." It is this that causes us, presuming on your kindness, to ask for space in the paper read by them and their families, in order that we may more properly thank them for doing so graciously that extra something. To describe this no single word comes to mind and only possibly the term "fraternizing" may serve.

Last night while the music was being played the Legionnaires personally visited as many patients as time allowed. This meant a lot to the men, and doubly so to some of the men who never have a visitor.

The Legionnaires have a mutual bond with the patients here, and therefore when they greeted us with a warm handshake and showed concern about our recovery to health, we felt strongly that feeling with which friend meets friend.

It is of course commonly known that tuberculosis requires long-term hospitalization, and demands separation from family and friends and isolation from society. However it may not be too evident that there are some such patients who have no longer any close family, and that there are again others who, somewhat justifiably, feel neglected by their relatives and former friends. This is not an indictment. The cases are few; but the statement is regrettably true. To this number of us patients there was an added pleasure and value when a group of "good Joes" like the Commander Manning Weller, genial Mr. Cosgrove and his buddies who were here last night not only surrendered an evening's pleasure with their families, traveled to and from the hospital, spent money to entertain us, and supply us with smokes, but personalized their evening's generous gesture by visiting us individually.

We sincerely want the Post 343 to be assured that, regardless of however mute we have been in the past in actually expressing our appreciation for their previous efforts in our behalf, we were nonetheless in every instance thankful—or perhaps we should apologize now for that timid silence and, in so apologizing, give now a belated, but sincere and public thanks to a gang of swell guys.

Sincerely,
Patrick McElwee

A story illustrating senatorial vagaries is served up by Bob Allen and William V. Shannon in "The Truman Merry-Go-Round". A senator from South Carolina had made up his mind for the Marshall Plan. He asked his staff assistant to prepare a speech supporting the plan, but including various arguments against it to prove to his constituents that he had gravely weighed every angle.

When the count was taken, the senator voted against the plan! His assistant queried him about this, and the senator replied, "When I was reading the speech into the Congressional Record and came to the part listing all the objections to the plan, I was deeply impressed. In fact, your arguments were so good I couldn't help but go along with them. So I voted no."

Allen and Shannon add, "This is the first objective evidence we have that senators listen to their own speeches."

Have You Filed Your Income Tax Return For Year?

Did you file your income tax return?

Do you owe some income tax?

Will you have a refund coming?

The only way to get an answer to the latter two questions is by filing your income tax return.

Make certain all taxable income is recorded on the income tax form, so that the correct amount of tax can be determined.

The next important thing is to get that income tax return filed immediately. If a refund is in order, you may expect it within a very short time. Let's act at once!

Nine Suspects Held In Bombing At Jersey City, N.J.

JERSEY CITY, N. J., March 3.—(INS)—Jersey City police held nine men today, including five hospitalized victims, in connection with a waterfront union bombing as "material witnesses or possible suspects."

A spokesman for the police department said, however, that "there is nothing definite as to who is the actual culprit who threw the bomb."

The war over the control of New Jersey docks, allegedly reaching into state political factions, was forced into a temporary stalemate following the bombing on the eve of a scheduled election to decide control of Local 1247 of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association.

It was the second bombing in two months.

The party originally left Idlewild airport at 6:13 p.m. last night. Engine trouble near Hall-Fax, Nova Scotia, forced the airplane to turn about and it returned to the Queens airfield at 11:47 p.m.

The passengers were transferred to another Pan American airplane which departed at 1:40 a.m. Because of the seven-hour delay, the Jessup party is not expected to arrive in the French capital until after 8 p.m. Paris time tonight.

Poetry Group Will Sponsor Student Contest

At the appreciation meeting of the New Castle Poetry group, Friday evening, plans were made for a poetry contest to be sponsored by the local group.

However, this year the contest will be open to all students in the Lawrence county high schools. The contest will be for poetry and any high school student may submit a lyric poem not to exceed 32 lines, in any style. The deadline for the local poets is April 16, and entries may be mailed to the New Castle Poetry group, New Castle, Pa. There will be three prizes awarded.

Miss Alice Sterling, president, was in charge of the meeting which took place in the public library. The contest committee was also appointed at this time: Mrs. George Henderson, Frances Haydon and Allurah Leslie.

An interesting and informative program was held after the business meeting, with program chairman Garnet Rhodes in charge. Mrs. Laura McAllister gave a splendid biography of Lord Byron. The biography was written by Honorable Rhoda Noel.

The Sitwells—three English poets who have been writing poetry in England for the past 30 years were later discussed. The three poets recently visited America, their poetry being widely acclaimed.

Miss Frances Haydon, read selections written by Edith Sitwell and Mrs. Mildred Gardner read selections written by Sir O. Herbert Sitwell and Sacherevel Sitwell. An interesting discussion followed.

The meeting later adjourned until March 16, at which time the workshop meeting will be held, the place to be announced.

Tiger Killing Lion Will Remain In Beatty's Circus

DETROIT, March 3.—(INS)—Prince, the lion who killed two circus tigers in 10 days, will stay in Clyde Beatty's wild animal act. Nobody else wants him.

Beatty offered the vicious beast to the zoo after "Prince" mauled a tiger in a flesh-tearing battle Thursday night in Detroit. The tiger, valued at $5,000, died yesterday afternoon. Only 10 days ago, the lion attacked and killed "Sheba," another prize circus tiger.

The wild animal trainer decided to keep "Prince" when the Detroit zoo turned down the lion late yesterday. Zoo Director Frank G. McInnis explained he feared the circus animal would disrupt the peaceful lion colony at the zoo.

Beatty admitted "Prince" is a nasty character, but agreed to give him another chance. However, he sternly pointed out that the lion will be shown "who is boss."

Beatty had no difficulty with Prince during last night's performance.

Titans Will Play Final Game In Old Home Gym Tonight

Win Over Carnegie Tech Will Give Westminster 77 Straight At Home

Westminster college's basketball Titans say goodbye to their gymnasium here tonight. It's the final game in the gym that sports writers have called a telephone booth, a matchbox, a postage stamp floor in today's age of big floors, big crowds.

And it's goodbye to a gym where Westminster has won 76 straight ball games. The last time the Westminster Titans lost at home was in 1942 when Duquesne university slipped by 38-36. Unpredictable Carnegie Tech will have the final chance to snap the streak tonight.

New Gym Holds 3,500

Next year the Titans expect to play their high-scoring game at Memorial fieldhouse, the $250,000 structure that school authorities hope will be ready early this summer, in June or July. There was hope the Titans would play some of their home games there this season. But steel was late arriving, holding up construction.

The new gym should be one of the finest in the state. The floor will be regulation size, 94x50 feet, with two feet of running space beyond the baskets. There will be room for about 3500 fans to watch future Westminster fives. The present gym floor is 88x47, but seats only 1250 spectators.

Big Time Schedule

The new playing floor will allow the Titans to play a big-time schedule, bringing some of the nation's powerhouse teams here. Previously Westminster had to meet all its home opponents on foreign or neutral floors.

This year the Titans scheduled six of their biggest foes—Duquesne, Arizona State, Pepperdine, Detroit, Pitt and Washington—Jefferson—in nearby Farrell. But it was a neutral floor. Only opportunity the Titans had for pre-game practice was in the few minutes before the first tipoff.

Washabaugh Happy

Perhaps the happiest man in expectations of the new gym is Grover Washabaugh, Westminster's athletic director and head basketball coach. His teams have won 224 games and lost 80 since he began coaching here in 1937.

Washabaugh summed up the feeling of the college when he said, "Westminster will be a little happier than anyone else, when it will be able to accommodate its friends at home basketball games." He spoke for "the college family" that includes students, faculty, alumni and friends.

Will Not Pick All-American Team

NEW YORK, March 3.—(INS)—Due to the gambling fixes which have rocked New York and may reach elsewhere, International News Service will not pick an all-America basketball team for this season.

It would be just a bit too incongruous to dash off to the district attorney's office or the police station to present such honors to some of the favored stars.

Satterfield Can Defeat Charles

This Is Opinion Of Jack Sharkey

CHICAGO, March 3.—A fellow who ought to know about fighters and comebacks says Chicago's Bob Satterfield is the uncrowned heavyweight champion and that Joe Louis' attempted comeback will end in failure.

The speaker was former heavyweight champion Jack Sharkey. The one-time sailor from Boston, who has the unique distinction of being knocked out by both Jack Dempsey and Louis, said:

"Satterfield is about the only fighter that I've seen recently who can beat champion Ezzard Charles. Satterfield can punch and he has boxing skill."

"I think he could knock out Louis in one or two heats," Sharkey said. Louis was making a bad mistake in trying to regain the heavyweight throne. Sharkey continued:

Reflexes Bad

"Louis looks physically as good as he ever did but his reflexes are bad. He sees the punches coming and he can't do anything about them. So he covers up. Joe would have stepped inside these blows in the olden days. The other guy then would have landed on the floor."

Sharkey explained that the reflexes of any man are too slow for boxing at the age of 36. He said the same thing happened to him and that he first noticed this slowdown in a comeback match with King Levinsky in Chicago.

(By International News Service)

The Cleveland Barons will have their sights set on their 16th undefeated game in a row on home ice tonight when they battle the rapidly-rising Indianapolis Caps.

The Caps were cellar dwellers for part of the season, but with added strength and good goal tending they have zoomed into second place and a certain playoff berth in the Western division.

In other games tonight, Cincinnati will visit Hershey. St. Louis goes to Springfield and Providence takes on Pittsburgh.

No games were played last night.

Section 23 Coaches Select All-Star Team For Season

All-Star team for Section 23 WPIAL has been selected by the coaches of the section. Every coach in the county class B loop voted for first and second teams.

Results of the ballots have been tallied, with two points awarded for a first team vote and one for a second. Results of the poll are as follows:

Player	Pos.	Player	Pos.
Dick Pitzer, Union	F	Eddie Badger, Shenango	F
Walt McGinnis, Wilmington	F	Johnny Allen, Shenango	F
Clyde Cummins, East Brook	F
Caesar Craine, Wampum	C	Pete Barber, Union	C
Phil DeArment, Bessemer	G	Bob McKinley, Mt. Jackson	G
John McMillin, Wampum	G	Jim Novalesi, Wampum	G

Mention: Dave Boyd, New Wilmington; Jim Gagliano, Bessemer; Jud Patterson, East Brook; Joe Douth, Mt. Jackson; Tom Hartwell, New Wilmington; Darrell Rung, East Brook; John Swoggers, Wampum.

Two points were awarded for first team selection, regardless of position selected for, and positions listed are arbitrary on the part of The News. Coaches did not select any of their own players.

Caesar Craine was the only player to receive unanimous selection to the first team, receiving six first team votes. Caesar is the only repeater on the first team, having made it in last year's poll.

Phil DeArment and Dick Pitzer each received five first team votes and one second team vote. John McMillin received four first and two second. Walt McGinnis and Clyde Cummins each received three first and three second.

Bob McKinley repeated on the second team by way of two first and four second team votes. Other players that received first team votes were Eddie Badger (3), Jim Novalesi (2), Pete Barber (1) and Johnny Allen (1).

Harry Matthews Wins Decision

Will Seek Bout With Joe Maxim

NEW YORK, March 3.—(INS)—Harry Matthews, rugged Seattle boxer, warmed up his verbal guns today to petition for a shot at Light-Heavyweight Boxing Champion Joey Maxim.

Matthews' 53rd straight triumph without defeat—and 29th in a row since he last fought a draw—was an impressive ten-round upset of Bob Murphy of San Diego, third-ranked 175-pounder, at Madison Square Garden.

Neither battler could put his foe on the canvas last night, although between them they own 105 Knockouts. But Matthews' supremacy was so marked that only one judge awarded Murphy as many as three rounds.

Matthews weighed 174½ to Murphy's 172½.

Five Schools Seek Coaches

CLAIRTON, Pa., March 3.—(INS)—John Karris today had submitted his resignation as head football coach at Clairton high school.

His action followed that of Neil Brown who quit as football coach at Har-Brack high school Thursday.

At the moment, vacancies caused by resignation of coaches exist at five district high schools. In addition to Clairton and Har-Brack, they are Midland, Sharon and Masontown.

Ferrier Continues Tournament Lead

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 3.—(INS)—Big Jim Ferrier of San Francisco goes into today's third round of the $10,000 St. Petersburg Open Golf Tournament with a slim one-stroke lead over Skeel Riegel of Tulsa, Okla.

The former Australian champion has a 36-hole total of 133. He shot a 69 yesterday—five strokes over his opening card of 64—while Riegel was turning in his second straight four-under-par 67.

HILLSVILLE ON TOP

Hillsville Holy Name recently upset the Pulaski Cubs on the Hillsville floor 49-33. Joe Romano was high scorer for Hillsville with 18 and Sniezek for the Cubs with 12.

HERE and THERE IN SPORTS LAND

STATE FISH COMMISSION intends to stock many trout in Pennsylvania waters within the near future. Brook, Brown and Rainbow trout range in size from six to fourteen inches. Stocking has already begun in Crawford county, the fish having come from the Corry hatchery. After the pre-season stocking, 100,000 additional trout will be stocked in mid-season.

Curtis Stone and Virgil Severns, both of the U.S., won the 10,000 meter run and high jump in Pan-American games at Buenos Aires. Pete Reilly, 61, New York, who died several days ago, was once prominent as a manager of front row pugilists. Sharon High has awarded 12 letters to basketballers. A bill to eliminate the power of the State Game commission to fix bag limits during the various game seasons has won Senate approval. Another bill would authorize the state to cooperate fully with the federal government on all fish restoration and management projects. It is hoped to bring back Shad to the Susquehanna river. Efforts are being made to prevent lamprey from killing Lake Erie whitefish. Other bills approved would increase the size of pickerel from 12 to 15 inches, prohibit hunting or trapping in cemeteries, and permit individuals to transport unmarked parts of a big game carcass, provided he is able to furnish the name of the individual who made the kill.

JACKIE KEOUGH, Cleveland, who boxed in a Police benefit at Taggart stadium here years ago, decided Tommy Bazzano, Nutmeg state welterweight, at White Plains, N. Y. Randolph Turpin knocked out Luc Van Dam, Holland, to win the European 160-pound crown in London in 48 seconds. Jack Hurley, of Chicago, who formerly managed the Fargo Express, Billy Petrolle, who has become a very wealthy man, is the manager of Harry Matthews who boxed Bob Murphy last night in New York City. Among those who are pleased now that the Indians will cavort again at Flaherty field is Bill Semler, a real ball fan. Harold Westerman is the new grid coach at Maine. Max Schmeling, German, who won and lost the heavyweight title in America, and who was one of the Nazi invaders of Crete (thereby drawing an Iron Cross from Hitler) is now an egg farmer, according to the magazine, People Today. Maurice Nielsen is one of the most consistent attendants at Lawrence County Sportsmen's meetings. Should any Lawrence county farmer desire to participate in the pheasant chick rearing program, all he needs to do is to communicate with Game Protector Cal Hooper, Harlansburg, who will outline what the farmer must do in order to be paid $1 per bird at the end of 12 weeks. Jimmy Pagley, ex-gofer, is now railroading. Herm Steinbrink has got over an attack of the flu, which is very prevalent hereabouts.

Sharon Junior High Loses To Aliquippa

Sharon junior high school, winners of Section 16 Junior WPIAL, dropped its first game of the WPIAL junior tournament 52-29 Friday afternoon to Aliquippa on the winners' court.

Atterholt led the Sharon team in scoring with 12 points. Valetti and Gill paced Aliquippa with 14 and 12 points respectively.

Lipman Admits Throwing Game To Duquesne U.

Dukes Won In 1949 Garden "Fix"

By CHARLES EINHSTEIN (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, March 3.—A search for another ex-Long Island university basketball player and two more fixers was opened today on information supplied by an arrested former game star who told his racket men invaded dressing rooms to give orders.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan attributed the disclosures to Louis Lipman, LIU top scorer for two seasons who was brought to New York from his home in Florida by two of the DA's men.

Out On Bail

Lipman, the 11th player or former player under arrest in the investigation of basketball fixing, was held in $1,000 bail on charges of taking a $300 bribe to throw the game with Duquesne in Madison Square Garden on January 1, 1949.

Hogan said Lipman, a member of a well-to-do family, told of double-crosses within double-crosses as LIU players plotted to cheat a substitute of his share of the fix payoff while star on the team and a payoff man tried to hold out on the entire group.

Lipman, father of two children, said that before he consented to go along with the fix his suspicions were aroused but a teammate warned him that if he voiced his suspicions publicly he would be "put in a sack and dumped in the river."

Hank A. C. Will Play Clowns Here Tonight

Tonight at Washington high floor the Hank A. C. undefeated in 16 straight games will play the famous Broadway Clowns five, with King Tut and Juggling Joe Taylor adding the comedy relief.

The prelim tonight will feature the East Brook Boosters against the fast Shenango Y team at 7 o'clock.

It will be the final home appearance of the Hanks this year and the final game for Al Gonet as a local coach. Gonet incidentally signed a well known young player, "Bud" Koonce, today, and will have the inimitable "Bud" in uniform tonight.

Dumpson Real Star

Bill "Showboat" Dumpson, 6'3" and 190 pounds is a former North Carolina State court star with the Clowns, is the teams best ball handler. A real court discovery with another year or two must be rated as the best on the hardwood. Has a tremendous 83" arm reach. With enormous hands measuring 9 inches from tip to thumb to tip of little finger is able to palm an official basketball with either hand and both at the same time.

The teams real "Fancy Dan" with a basketball. His bag of tricks include bouncing a ball on the floor and catching it between his knees while faking it to the left or right. Doing it with such speed as to bewilder his opponents so that they will not know just where the ball is.

Before his college career, "Showboat" was a cage star at his local high school in North Carolina which won two state championships. They ran up a record of 65 straight games before defeat. His tricky ball handling and comic antics has basketball critics all over the country to acclaim him as one of the best ball handlers on the hardwood today. In the off-season he is a member of the Philadelphia Stars of the Negro American League, where he effectively does a fine hurling job for the Stars.

Boosters Win From Slippery Rock 65-55

The East Brook Boosters bested the Slippery Rock Clowns last night at the Boosters' floor, 65-55. Slippery Rock held a two-point advantage at halftime but fell before a furious third-quarter attack.

East Brook has now won 16 and dropped 11. Prior to the Clown-Booster game, the county coaches and referees, all former high school, and college stars, panted through four quarters with the referees sighting the hoops more often to win, 50-46.

Rags Gennock led all scorers with 18 points.

PITT VS. STATE

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 3.—(INS)—Pitt closes its season against Penn State at State college tonight and the Nittany Lions are strong favorites to win their 14th game.

Although Pitt has improved steadily during the latter part of the season, Penn State seldom loses to the Panthers at home. Pitt upset West Virginia 74-72 last Monday in Pittsburgh.

Graham Reports Upon Congress

Reviews Work Of Two Months

In a report made today, Congressman Louis E. Graham reviews the work of the 82nd Congress since it began work two months ago.

Congressman Graham expects to make a monthly report of congressional activities. His first report follows:

January 3, 1951—

The first action taken by the House of Representatives was to restore the powers taken from the Rules Committee two years ago. The vote was 244 to 179, a majority of 65. I voted to restore the powers.

January 4, 1951—

This day it was reported that 1,024 bills were introduced on the opening day of the 82nd Congress. Same day Chairman Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee announced the beginning of hearings on revision of the Draft Law.

January 8, 1951—

President Truman submits State of the Union Policy devoted almost exclusively to foreign policy and military preparedness matters.

January 9, 1951—

The President sent a message to Congress asking for legislation to provide for the redistricting of Congressional Districts on the basis of the 1950 Census. Pennsylvania will lose 3 Congressional seats due to the 1950 Census. The President suggested that in the redistricting each district be drawn up on the basis of 350,000 population, with a permitted deviation of 50,000 above or below the figure. Present population of 25th Pennsylvania District is approximately 375,000.

January 11, 1951—

Comptroller General Warren urges enactment of a bill to give $10,000 free insurance to members of the Armed Services and terminate any further issuance of National Service Life Insurance, stating that such a bill would save the government millions of dollars.

January 12, 1951—

President Truman submits economic report to Congress, estimated that "primary national security programs" will cost One Hundred and Forty ($140) Billions of dollars during the fiscal year 1951 and 1952, and called for "much more" of a tax increase than the Eight ($8) Billion increase of 1950. Representative Daniel Reed, Republican of New York, ranking Minority Member of the House Ways and Means Committee said: "I think the President has gone hysterical."

January 15, 1951—

The President submitted to Congress a budget which calls for spending Seventy-One Billion, Six Hundred Million ($71.6) in fiscal year 1952, starting next July 1, and announced that he intends to balance the budget with vast tax increases. He estimated federal receipts at $55.1 Billion, which would leave a deficit of $16.5 Billion to be offset by taxes.

January 16, 1951—

House Veterans Committee unanimously approved H. R. 1—a free $10,000 death gratuity plan. This passed the House January 24th.

January 19, 1951—

The Defense Department submitted to Congress a bill providing extra pay of $100 a month for officers, and $50 a month for enlisted men doing combat duty in Korea. The bill was introduced by Chairman Vinson of Georgia of the House Armed Services Committee.

January 23, 1951—

The House passed H. R. 1731, to provide for renegotiation of Defense Contracts for the purpose of recapturing "excess profits," by a vote of 377 to 0.

February 1, 1951—

Members of the Senate and House hear General Eisenhower tell them that U. S. troops should be sent to Europe on ratio basis; that there is a possibility of a 30-year armament program.

February 7, 1951—

The House, by a vote of 198 to 107 tentatively approved a "peril point" amendment to the Reciprocity Trade Agreement Act, extension bill (H. R. 1612). Bill passed by voice vote.

February 14, 1951—

Chairman Celler of the House Judiciary Committee introduced a bill to redistrict all Congressional districts. The bill follows recommendations of the President. Sixteen states must be redistricted as a result of the 1950 Census.

February 28, 1951—

Chairman Murray of the House Committee on Post Office and Civil Service introduced H. R. 2982, embodying the President's recommendations for postal rate increases. The President's recommendations included an increase on post cards from 1c to 2c; doubling the 13c a pound on Second Class mail, which includes newspapers and magazines; doubling the rate on Third Class mail, which includes is now carried for 1c a piece; an increase in rates for Special services, including Registry, Insurance, C.O.D., and Special Delivery.

Chairman Murray stated that the House already has received more than 200 bills to increase the pay of postal employees and that the total cost of the increases would be more than 1 Billion 500 Million dollars.

As of February 19, 1951, 4,329 bills and resolutions had been introduced in the House and of this number 1,421 had been referred to the Committee on the Judiciary of which I am a member.

POINT FOUR PROGRAM HOLDS REAL PROMISE

One of the most hopeful spots in today's gloomy international picture is the Point Four Program.

Point Four which is coordinated in the Department of State, provides a way of helping nations to help themselves. This is being done by making skills, techniques, knowledge and general information available to any nation that requests them.

An example of the program in action is found in the demonstration centers being used in Iran. These centers, in selected rural villages, will demonstrate and practice simple methods of improving health, agriculture, and education.

The United States already has sent large amounts of food, especially grain and grain preparations to other nations under the European Recovery Act. While this has been important, merely sending food and material into a country tends, in the long run, to discourage local production. Under Point Four, however, economically under-developed countries are encouraged and helped in making full and efficient use of their own resources.

Point Four, by exporting skills and "knowhow," will aid greatly in raising the level of living in many nations. A high level of living goes a long way toward removing hunger and fear which, if not removed, leads to unrest, strife, and war.

If we can get other nations to produce more, we might be able to trade more with them. The effect of this type of program would be to aid both foreign nations and the United States as well.

THREE KEYS TO SUCCESS IN FOOD SHOPPING

There are three keys to success in buying the family food supply and still keep within the budget. They are wise planning, intelligent selection, and proper care of food. These keys to food shopping success are important at all times, but especially now when the cost of living is so much higher. Homemakers who follow these keys will get the most in nutritional value, dollar value, and eating satisfaction from their food expenditures.

Key number one, wise planning before visiting the retail store, is one approach to the food-shopping job. Much of the success in actual buying is the result of good plans made in advance.

Wise selection at the store, the second key, requires considerable knowledge of foods, seasons, varieties, and quality signs. Homemakers are urged to acquire such knowledge.

There is not much point to doing a good planning job and buying wisely at the store, if the food does not receive proper care after it is brought home. The third key, proper care of food until used is of vital importance, though often not given enough attention by food shoppers.

Use nutrition guides in planning to obtain well-balanced meals, make out menus before shopping, use a complete shopping list, and select a retail store that will best serve the family needs, are other points to consider. Buy by weight, not by a dime's or a dollar's worth, and buy food for the use that is to be made of it.

Veterans' Council Will Meet Monday

Announcement was made today of an important meeting scheduled by the Veterans' Council for Monday evening, March 5, at 9 p.m., in the American Legion Home.

All veterans' organizations are invited to attend. President Commander Edward A. DeCarbo stated that plans will get underway to combine the city veterans' council with the county groups to organize it into a county council.

All Lawrence county veteran groups are to participate at this meeting.

GOOD COMPANY

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Mrs. Ellie B. Lockhart, hailed into court on a minor traffic charge, started weeping. "It's no disgrace to be in a traffic case of this type," Judge Carl Stokes assured her. "The other day I had a preacher up here for running through a stop sign." Then the judge dismissed the case.

Legion Auxiliary Will Meet Monday

On Monday evening the American Legion auxiliary No. 343 will have a regular business meeting at 8 o'clock in the Legion Home. President Mrs. John Speed will be in charge.

Today's Fashion Flash

By PHYLLIS BATTLE

NEW YORK, March 3.—(INS)—Now is the time for all June brides to come to the aid of their fathers! Wedding gowns costing what they do, it has become the acceptable tradition in 1951 to buy a nuptial ensemble that will have more post-wedding purpose than a stowing-away in blue paper.

Tops on the list of practical marriage fashions is the strapless white or ivory satin gown, made suitable for church weddings with the addition of a sheer, high-necked, long-sleeved and ala-train redingote.

The gown can be packed away for an evening frock on the honeymoon. The redingote can be stored as an heirloom, to put to use later as a negligee.

More popular fashion for informal weddings is the lace cocktail dress, strapless or with narrow bands over the shoulders. It has a matching, waist-length jacket which fills all the necessary requirements of wedding convention.

COLDLY HOT

PITTSBURGH, (INS)—You wouldn't think of boiling water over a piece of ice. But Westinghouse low-temperature scientists can boil liquid helium by "heating" it with liquid air—at a temperature of 340 degrees below zero. It works because liquid helium is more than 100 degrees colder than liquid air.

INTRODUCTIONS AMONG THE YOUNG

"I am 17 years old and constantly have difficulty in introducing my friends—both boys and girls. Is it necessary to use last names or will first names do? How should I introduce boys and girls to my mother and the mothers of my friends? When one's mother has remarried and has a different last name, how should the introduction be phrased? Also when there is a half-sister whose last name is different?"

Answer: Generally speaking, last names are always used in introductions, preceded by "Miss" or "Mr." But for one of your tender years, it is perfectly correct to omit formality and introduce thus: "Kathryn Smith, this is Bill Jones" or "Mary Jones". Last names should, of course, be used so that there may, without hitch, be proper identification. When introducing your young friends to your mother or the mothers of your friends—"Mother, this is Bill Jones." "Mrs. Smith, this is Mary Jones." Always introduce everyone to your mother and never your mother to others. This, regardless of age. Young people are always introduced to their elders; men to women, regardless of age. Anyone whom you call "Mr." or

"Miss" should, of course, be introduced as such. Young people are usually informal and say more of less what first comes to mind. Spontaneous, rather than stilted, long-drawn-out introductions put strangers at ease. When a mother, through remarriage, has a different name from her children, the form might be: "Mary, I want to present you to my mother, Mrs. Jones." When the name is the same, the mothers' name is omitted. A half-sister whose name differs should be introduced: "...my sister, Mary Jones."
